

LONDON
METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

Undergraduate Course Guide

Welcome from our Vice-Chancellor

Named as one of London's most influential people in the Evening Standard's Progress 1000 list for her contribution to advancing social equality is our very own Vice-Chancellor Lynn Dobbs. Her vision for London Met? To give more back to our city by focusing on real-world problems and striving for social inclusion, equality and diversity to ensure equal opportunities for all.

I was born on a council estate in Newcastle.

I actually had good O level results but I didn't stay on for A levels – it would never have occurred to me to go to university. After I had my children I went to Northumbria University as a mature student with a baby and a toddler, working throughout my studies. It wasn't easy, but I loved it and never looked back.

Lots of universities talk the talk about social justice but it isn't just what's said at London Met – it's what's believed and what happens here. The commitment to the students who haven't reached their full potential at school or want to come back into education is massive. We provide opportunities. London Met is underpinned by a commitment to social justice that makes me feel really emotional and that really is what stands out.

Our strategy is about giving back to our city by supporting our students, powering the labour market and tackling disadvantage and inequality across the London boroughs and beyond.

We are making a difference. Every one of the challenges in our strategy focuses on the issues affecting deprived communities: health, human rights, enterprise, environment and the skills deficit. It's a unique privilege to be able to lead an institution and know that you can make a huge difference to the lives and communities that the University serves.

We've developed a student success strategy which has equality and social justice at its heart. A key focus will be on tackling the Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) gaps in terms of continuation, achievement and progression into employment. We are going to eradicate the gaps or die trying.

Studying is hard but has the potential to transform your life. Higher education transformed mine. Just do a subject that you love – get on the path, keep going and don't look back.

Why London Met?

Whatever you want to do, we're here to take you – and help you – on that journey.

We couldn't be better situated – we're based in one of the world's most diverse and exciting capital cities, brimming with successful global businesses and cutting-edge start-ups

		Additional accreditation	No

Course overview

Our multidisciplinary course will focus on giving you a firm academic base in the core disciplines of aviation management, with a particular focus on the international business setting. It will help you develop an understanding of the global business environment in which airlines and airports operate through the study of economics, human resources, marketing and finance.

Integral to this course is the development of essential skills and knowledge necessary to become a high-ranking aviation professional in a number of possible career routes, including airline operations management, engineering management and airline strategy. Our lecturers have excellent links with members of the aviation community and they're perfectly placed to offer you career advice specific to the sector.

We place emphasis on advancing your decision-making skills on an operational, international and strategic level. Although you'll specialise in airline, airport and aviation management, the course will also equip you with transferable skills that are necessary for a career in international business management. These skills are developed through engagement with real-life and virtual business challenges, providing you with the opportunity to study core aspects of management and leadership that are relevant in business.

You'll have the opportunity to visit major international airlines, airports and commercial aircraft manufacturers. Our location places us close to UK headquarters of a number of leading aviation companies, such as Boeing and Bombardier, and a short distance from all major London airports such as Gatwick, Heathrow, London City, Luton and Stansted. Owing to our location and links with the industry, we often welcome visiting lecturers from airlines, airports, maintenance organisations, consultancy organisations and aircraft manufacturers.

Our dynamic Aviation Society will introduce you to university life, organise regular trips and invite guest speakers to the University. Our top priorities are educational resources and the quality of teaching. In addition to the University's extensive facilities and resources, you'll have access to database services, aviation journals and magazines appropriate to aviation management studies.

Graduating with work experience will make you more likely to get into your desired career. Therefore we'll provide you with the opportunity to undertake practical and career-enhancing modules as part of your studies. In Year 2 or 3 you can study our work-related learning module and the University will advertise suitable opportunities and provide guidance. However, please note that we can't guarantee you work experience.

Why study this course?

Designed in conjunction with senior aviation managers, our Airline, Airport and Aviation Management BSc degree course recognises the demand in today's international aviation community for graduates with sound business skills and a good understanding of the entire aviation system. Aviation is an exciting industrial sector that ranges from the technological excellence of aviation engineering to the management of global airlines and airports.

Our airport, airline and aviation management courses ranked highly in the latest National Student Survey (NSS), scoring 97% for overall student satisfaction. Our management studies courses are first in London for overall student satisfaction according to the National Student Survey 2022.

Our business and management courses are ranked first for teaching quality in the Guardian University Guide 2023.

Entry requirements

In addition to the University's standard entry requirements, you should have:

- a minimum of grades CCC in three A levels (or a minimum of 96 UCAS points from an equivalent Level 3 qualification, eg BTEC National, OCR Diploma or Advanced Diploma)
- English Language and Mathematics GCSE at grade C/grade 4 or above (or equivalent)

If you don't have traditional qualifications or can't meet the entry requirements for this undergraduate degree, you may still be able to gain entry by completing our Airline, Airport and Aviation Management \(including foundation year\) BSc \(Hons\) degree.

Accelerated study

If you have relevant qualifications or credit from a similar course it may be possible to enter this course at an advanced stage rather than beginning in the first year. Please note, advanced entry is only available for September start. See our information for students applying for advanced entry.

Assessment

You'll be assessed through written coursework, oral presentations, individual and group research projects, portfolio work, problem-solving case studies and a final research project of 8,000 words.

London is home to top organisations in every sector – from finance and legal to architecture and the creative arts. You name it, you'll find an organisation in the capital to match your interests and aspirations, whether it's a small thriving tech start-up or a global giant such as Google or the BBC.

Get swept up in the buzz around London Fashion Week with displays from top British designers and see exciting design innovation at South Kensington's Design Museum and the London Design Festival, the latter of which has featured work by graduates from our School of Art, Architecture and Design in recent years.

As one of the great theatre capitals of the world, London has plenty on offer to entertain you throughout the year – the Almeida Theatre is down the road, just off Upper Street, and the theatres in the West End and on the South Bank are just a short Tube ride away from both our campuses.

More than 250 festivals take place in London every year including the largest free festival, the Mayor's Thames Festival, and Europe's biggest street festival, the Notting Hill Carnival, which attracts close to one million people.

Whether it's cricket at The Oval, Twickenham's rugby, football at Wembley or the world's oldest tennis tournament, Wimbledon, there's live sporting action for everyone to enjoy across the capital. Arsenal Football Club is a stone's throw away from our Tower Building, and on match days fans transform the neighbouring streets into a sea of red shirts, scarves and singing.

London is one of the most exciting, vibrant, cosmopolitan cities in the world. It's a place to explore, socialise and have fun, but it's also a city where you can excel, progress and make huge strides forward in your career.

The British Library is just a short journey from our Islington home and, with more than 150 million items, you'll never run out of new fascinating facts and items to discover, including the Magna Carta and manuscripts of lyrics by The Beatles.

If digital is your thing, Silicon Roundabout is fast becoming Europe's answer to Silicon Valley – based in the area around Hoxton, Old Street and Shoreditch, where our own business incubator Accelerator is based.

At London Met you're within easy reach of all major transport hubs, from trains to explore the UK at weekends, to London's many airports. International students can easily get home to visit their friends and family but there's nothing to stop anyone taking advantage of a cheap flight to Europe. We're minutes away from St Pancras, and from there Eurostar will get you to Paris, Brussels or Amsterdam in a matter of hours.

Our

We have two campuses – one on the bustling Holloway Road in Islington, north London, and the other in Aldgate, east London, home to our art, architecture and design courses.

Facilities

By coming to London Met you're investing in your future. In return, we're investing in our facilities and services to ensure it's the best investment you'll ever make.

and services

Our Holloway campus houses The Rocket, our student venue. It hosts a full programme of club nights, comedy, live music, open-mic nights, pub quizzes, karaoke and themed parties to name a few. And of course, it's the main spot for our student society events throughout the year.

The Special Collections

The University's Special Collections – located within the Wash Houses at our Aldgate campus – are a valuable resource for research activity in a number of areas for students, staff and external visitors.

The principal collections are:

The Archive of the Irish in Britain
The Frederick Parker Collection and Archive
The Trades Union Congress (TUC)
Library Collections
The University Archive

Libraries and study areas

Our libraries provide a wide range of information and resources, as well as silent learning zones, bookable group study rooms and comfy informal spaces where you can meet and study collaboratively. There are PCs as well as printing and copying facilities.

To save you time, there are self-service facilities to borrow, return, renew or reserve an item. Our print and digital resources include books, journals, and databases, some of which are available online 24 hours a day via our web-based catalogue. We also have self-service laptop loan lockers that allow you to borrow one to take to lectures, a nearby café or your favourite study spot.

Our academic liaison librarians also provide learning support and help with finding and using library resources for your studies. You can make an appointment to see your librarian for advice.

Our library service is a member of the Society of College, National and University Libraries (SCONUL Access). This gives you the opportunity to access the many other university libraries that also belong to the scheme.

support

To help you get the most out of your university experience, you'll have access to outstanding support from our student services team. We also run workshops and events on aspects of student life such as mental and physical health and wellbeing, money matters and study strategies.

School offices

When you start at London Met, your school office is your first point of contact for any query you may have in person, by telephone, email or online chat. You can talk to trained and knowledgeable staff about a host of enquiries relating to areas such as:

- enrolment
- your academic programme (including timetabling, module selections and results)
- ID cards
- transcripts
- council tax exemption and University letters such as confirmation of enrolment

Student support

If you need extra support or information in other areas, our Student Services team can help.

Money and accommodation

London has many exciting areas to live and work in, but finding somewhere great is about taking your time and considering your options – our Student Money and Accommodation Advice Service can help you find somewhere comfortable and affordable.

- Halls of residence are a great way to meet fellow students. We work with a number of different accommodation providers to suit all tastes and budgets.
- You may decide you'd rather rent a flat privately through a landlord or letting agent, either on your own or with a few friends. We can provide advice about where to look for properties, rental contracts, viewings and deposits.
- Homestays are an option if you want a supportive environment. If you're an international student, they're a great way to improve your language skills, as you'll be placed with a British family.
- We can provide advice on hotels, hostels, B&Bs and short-stay private accommodation. There are also several halls that offer single semester contracts or contracts of a flexible length.

We can also help you navigate the various funding options available. Full information, including eligibility criteria, can be found on our website.

Counselling

Our professional counsellors offer confidential counselling to help you with everything from relationship issues to family concerns. You can also meet with a counsellor to help maximise your potential, both personally and academically. We run workshops on topics including mindfulness, motivation and meditation.

Students with additional needs

Our Disabilities and Dyslexia Service (DDS) offers support to students with disabilities or Specific Learning Difficulties (SpLDs), physical or sensory disabilities and long-term medical conditions including mental health challenges. We can offer advice on reasonable adjustments in line with the Equality Act (2010), guidance on available funding such as the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA) and we're also on hand to talk through any concerns you may have.

As well as providing the best possible university education, we'll give you plenty of opportunities to enhance your job prospects at the same time.

Life

Earn while you learn

We can help you find paid roles that will look fantastic on your CV. Our very own in-house temping agency, Met Temps, can help you find a job on campus. You can also become a student ambassador, success coach or social media ambassador, all of which are paid roles and a great way to help you to develop the skills employers are looking for (and earn a bit of extra cash while you study).

Gain experience through volunteering

At London Met you can get involved in our vibrant volunteering programme and gain experience with community-based organisations. Volunteering is a great way to get work experience, develop job skills and give your CV a significant boost.

Get expert career advice

Whether you know exactly what you want to do when you finish the course or aren't quite sure what direction to take next, our Careers and Employability Service can talk you through your options. We'll be here to help you stand out in the competitive job market, land a new role or receive that well-deserved promotion.

One-to-one advice

You will have access to personalised advice from our supportive careers consultants. We can help you with your CV, further study, your job search, interview skills and completing an application form. We can also help you highlight transferrable skills that employers are looking for such as critical thinking, problem solving, time management, attention to detail and teamwork.

Career workshops

Our career workshops are designed to help you succeed in the graduate job market. You can choose from a range of workshops on topics including job search, networking, creating and customising a CV, using LinkedIn, completing applications and interview techniques.

Employer events

We provide opportunities for you to meet employers on campus by organising employer presentations, fairs and careers conferences.

London Met mentoring

Our mentoring scheme gives you an opportunity to be put in touch with a career mentor from your chosen employment sector. Mentors come from a range of subject disciplines and will have professional experience in their sector.

“The careers service at London Met was excellent, not only in supporting me at the beginning of my career but also in developing the job search skills that I still use today.”

Join our alumni network

When you graduate, you'll become a member of our global alumni community, offering an ideal way to stay in touch with your former classmates and lecturers, and also network with fellow graduates who go on to become leaders in their fields across the world. Alumni benefits also include access to our libraries, gym and careers service for a number of years after graduation.

Interested in being your own boss or getting your business idea off the ground? Accelerator is our business incubator that helps students who are interested in freelancing, self-employment or starting a business at or after university.

Being your own boss can be hugely rewarding and is a great way to take control of your future and do something you love – all in a really supportive environment. Based off-campus in London's Tech City in Shoreditch, Accelerator is a thriving entrepreneurial community and is home to 30 innovative early-stage start-ups.

Accelerator provides all the advice, support, networks, knowledge and resources you need to get started. It runs a number of initiatives to help you with a start-up venture idea.

Annual events typically include:

- an idea and pitching competition in which students compete for prizes worth up to £30,000
- opportunities to sell your product at a busy London market
- a 10-week summer programme that will help turn your idea into a reality

Thousands of student businesses have grown thanks to Accelerator, including:

- Arctic Power Berries, natural powdered berry products, sold at Harrods, Ocado and Amazon
- TRIM-IT, the UK's first mobile barbershop
- Dottore London, a medical clinic for Italians living in London
- Sonora Taquería, authentic Mexican street food
- betting.com, an analytics platform for tipsters

Anna and Evelina set up Arctic Power Berries – a gluten-free berry powder that's transforming smoothies, yoghurts and bowls of cereal everywhere. It's proving so popular it's now sold by retailers including Harrods, Ocado, Amazon and Whole Foods!

Joining a society, taking up a new sport or getting involved in a campaign is a great way to learn different skills, become part of university life and, of course, make new friends.

Students' Union (SU)

Once you've enrolled, you become a member of the Students' Union (SU). The SU is here to support, represent and enrich the lives of our students, and can lobby the University and government to improve opportunities for all students. londonmetsu.org.uk

Get involved with our student media. The SU has its very own radio and magazine outlets – Verve Media. You could volunteer as a journalist, graphic designer, DJ, researcher and more. You can also tune in online: verve-lmsu.com

Join a student society – Whether your interests lie in politics, fashion, theatre, human rights, life drawing or something else entirely, there are more than 20 societies to choose from. You can even set up your own.

Take up a team sport – It's a great way to get fit, have fun and meet new people. Basketball, cheerleading, futsal, cricket, football and volleyball are just a few on offer. Some of our teams also represent us in the British Universities and Colleges Sport (BUCS) championships and the London Universities Sport Leagues (LUSL).

Fees

and funding

Studying a degree at London Met is an investment in your future. According to the Office for National Statistics, graduates earn significantly more than non-graduates, so investing in a degree now can pay off later.

How much will my course cost if I start in September 2022 or January 2023?

Tuition fees for Home students are regulated by the UK government. For 2022-23 these will be £9,250. Fees for international students (including students from the EU) are published on our online course pages when they're available. Fees are reviewed annually and are likely to change to take into account inflationary increases.

Please check our course web pages for fees before applying to the University.

www.MotivationAcademy.Global

What funding is available?

If you're a UK student, you may be able to borrow money to help cover your fees and get help with living costs. If you're eligible for a tuition fee loan, you usually don't need to pay back your loan until you have completed your course and are earning £27,295 or more per year. There are also other sources of funding to help you pay your living costs (these are usually means-tested). For the latest information on tuition fee loans and maintenance loans, please check the government's Student Finance website.

Disclaimer

This edition of the undergraduate course guide describes the facilities and courses that the University intends to offer during the 2022-23 academic year (that is, commencing in autumn 2022). Every effort has been made to ensure that the information contained in this guide is helpful, fair and accurate at the time of printing. However, this information is subject to change over time.

The University will take reasonable steps to provide the courses and services as described, however, the University cannot guarantee the provision of any course or facility. Some circumstances, such as staff changes, resource limitations and factors over which the University has no control, such as a change in the law or the level of demand for a particular programme or module (please note that this list is non-exhaustive), may result in the University having to withdraw or change aspects of the programmes, modules and/or student services detailed in the guide. This could include, but not necessarily be limited to, programme/module content, staffing, the location where the programme/module is taught or the manner of teaching delivery, or the facilities provided to deliver or support the programme. Where circumstances demand an unavoidable change or where it is necessary for the University to discontinue a programme of study, the University will take reasonable steps to minimise the effect and all proposed changes will be notified promptly to potential applicants who have registered an interest in the relevant programme as well as being reflected on the course pages on the University's website (londonmet.ac.uk/courses). It is important that you check our website for the most up-to-date information. In addition, any changes between the guide and the proposed course and services will be notified to applicants at the time of making an offer.

If you have any particular concerns regarding any proposed changes, you must make the University aware of these as soon as possible. Should you become a student at the University the teaching, assessment and other educational services will be described in the relevant course handbook and University regulations. Registration at the University and enrolment on a course will be subject to you complying with the University's registration procedure and your acceptance of the conditions of enrolment and the University's regulations (copies of which can be found at londonmet.ac.uk/regulations).

When you enrol you are personally liable to pay your tuition and other fees in line with the University's Fees Regulations (visit londonmet.ac.uk/regulations). If you have outstanding University debts, you will not be permitted to re-enrol at the University in future years and if you are in your final year of study and any part of your tuition fees is outstanding your award may be withheld and you will not be permitted to attend a graduation ceremony.
